

Porsche 1965 356C

VIN 219369 / Eng: P 714829

This original Black/black, matching number 356C was sold new at Competition Motors in Culver City. It has never had any major accident damage with no clips or repairs. The floor pan, longitudinals, and even the battery floor, are without rust damage and are original! The engine is the original 75hp 356C and the transaxle is a correct 356C type with BBBC gear ratios. It has had the same owner since the early 1970s and has always been a Southern California car.

In the late 1970s it was repainted in its original black and the interior was completely redone and upgraded to full leather. At the same time the carpet was changed to the charcoal 911 type which is still in perfect condition. The paint is still shiny and very presentable, although it does show some wear, a few nicks, and some paint-checking in a few areas. The owner was a fanatic about keeping the car clean, and the doors have some very small rust bubbles from regular washing. The black all leather interior is still in excellent condition with no tears or worn through areas. It does show some slight patina but could easily be redyed back to new condition. All the chrome and rubber is in nearly flawless condition.

The matching number engine was recently rebuilt to 1720cc by WR with a full detail back to original condition, this included new piston/cylinder kit (NPRs), new generator, oem regulator, Bosch 022 distributor, correct Zenith carbs, sport muffler, and #16 SC camshaft. All four Koni shocks work well, the transmission shifts smooth and the synchros are excellent. Brakes have been fully flushed with new hoses.

The electrics have been correctly converted to 12V and the car has an incredible stereo system with Alpine amplifier and speaker crossovers, discretely done with excellent sound quality.

This is a perfect car to use as a driver. It's been fully sorted and needs nothing.
